Where people look for Contact Us

Top right. Footer. The label "Contact Us" — not "Help Center."

01 Put it where it's expected

NN/g found users look top-right or in the footer when asked to reach a company.

02 Use the words they search for

People look for "Contact Us." Renaming it makes the practice look harder to reach.

03 Show a real phone number

Displaying a number signals availability. Hiding it reads as uninterested.

04 Don't rely on a form alone

A form can sit beside phone and email — not replace them.

Open for contact is part of trust.
