Your website looks lovely.

And says nothing about who you are.

“Some types of pictures are completely ignored. This is typically the case for big feel-good images that are purely decorative.”

Source: Jakob Nielsen, NN/g, Photos as Web Content (2010, reviewed 2026)

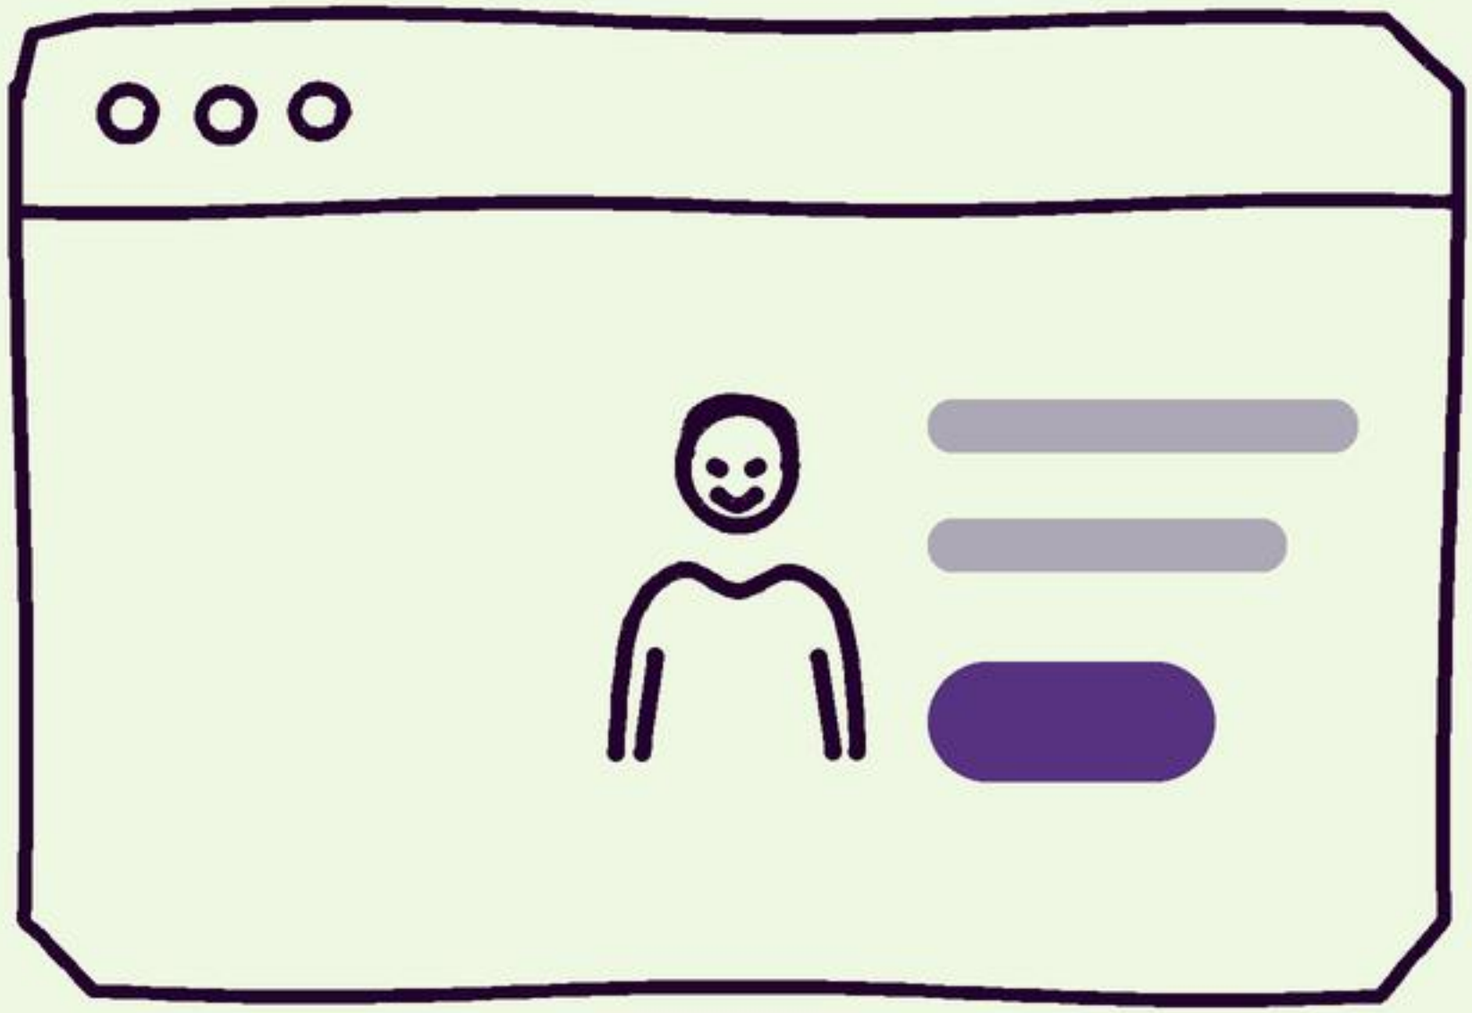

“on the web, jazzed-up = ignored.”

Source: NN/g

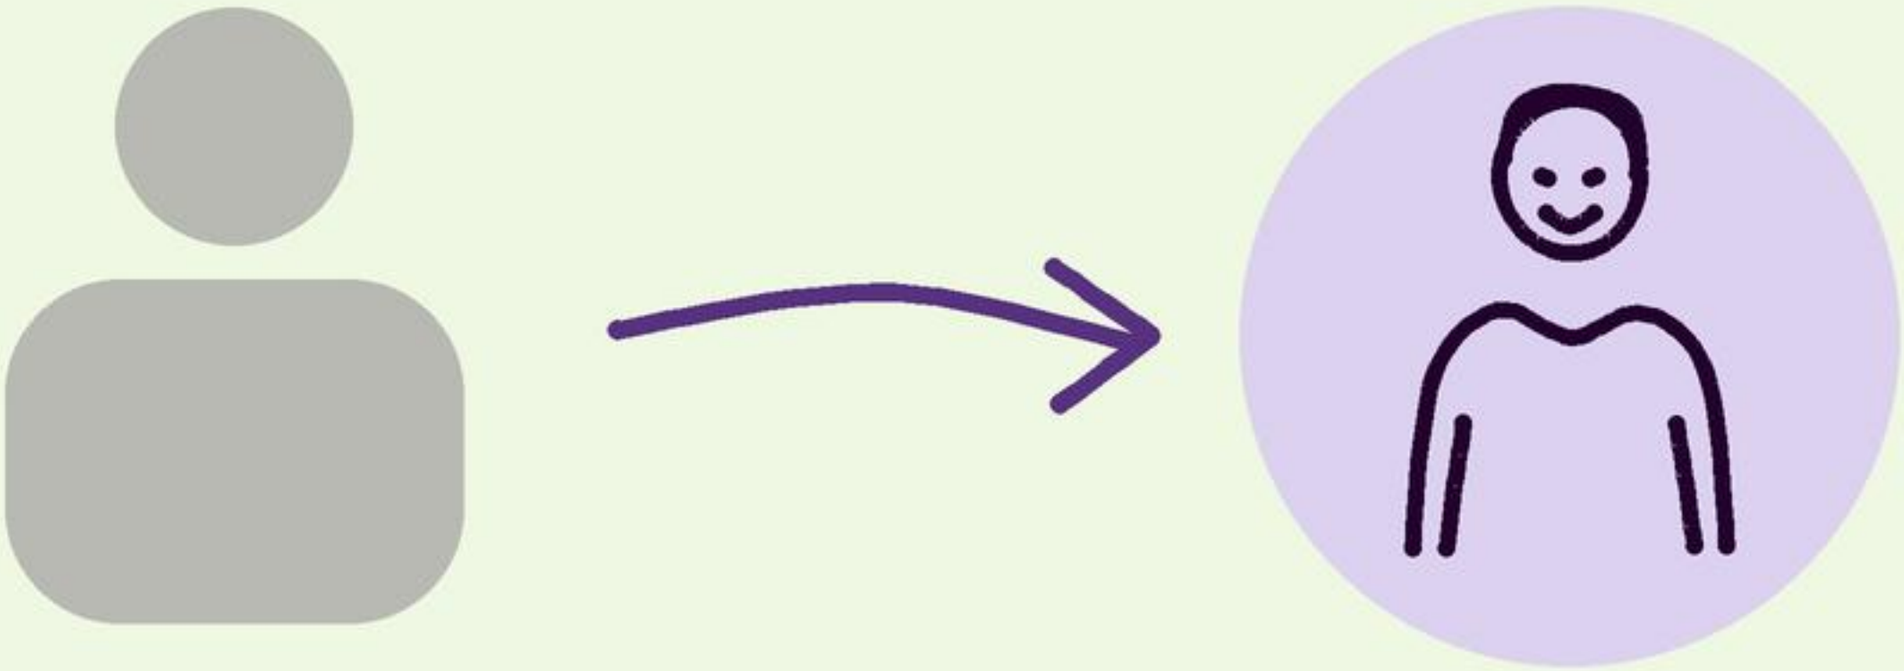

“Show that honest and trustworthy people stand behind your site.”

Source: Stanford Guidelines for Web Credibility, No. 4 (B.J. Fogg, 2002)

“The key point is that these are real people who actually work at the company.”

Source: Jakob Nielsen, NN/g, Photos as Web Content (2010, reviewed 2026)

Replace one decorative image with a real one. Let them see who stands behind the work.